

1. Try to navigate to your desired web site in Firefox; you should see an error stating that you connection is untrusted.

2. Click "I Understand the Risks", then scroll down until you see the button to add an exception.

3. Click the button to add an exception, which will trust this site's certificate. Wait for the page to load...

4. ... and the page should properly load! At this point, you're done; this exception will prevent that error from popping up in the future.
